

OUR BAPTIST LIBERTIES

Every faith tradition has a special genius, an inspired gift, which taken by itself not only illumines its path but brightens the way for other traditions.

For the Quakers, it is their silent meeting.

For the Presbyterians, it is their sense of order and intellect.

For the Episcopalians, it is their liturgy, exemplified by the Book of Common Prayer.

For the Catholics, it is the mystery of the Eucharist and the Mass.

For the Mennonites and Amish, it is their separated lifestyle.

For the Baptists, clearly, our Liberties are our inspired gift to other believers.

No other Christian group more highly prizes liberties than Baptists.
